18TH MAN PROJECT

One4Another INTERNATIONAL

During the 2014-15 season, the 2001 AAA Oakville Rangers started the 18th Man Project.

Wanting to create a lasting impact on the life of someone in need, with the help of One4Another International, the team funded life-saving surgery for Michael from Uganda.

After that more teams got involved and the 18th Man Project was truly born.

In 2016, the program grew to include more than 20 teams in Ontario.

So What is the 18th Man Project?

The 18th Man Project is about minor hockey teams taking on a new teammate.

Someone thousands of miles away who needs their help. Someone who has probably never seen a game of hockey.

Who is the 18th Man Project for?

It's for teams that want to make a lasting impact away from the rink.

It's for coaches who understand the importance of developing good hockey players at the rink and good people away from it.

How does it work?

Teams work with One4Another International (www.one4anotherintl.ca), a Canadian not-for-profit who co-ordinate life-saving surgeries for children in Uganda.

Teams fundraise or donate $1,200 (or $70 per family on a 17 man roster) and make a one-time payment for a lifetime impact.

Adding an 18th Teammate
The most unique part of this project is that teams truly do add an 18th member to their roster.

One4Another International keep the lines of communication between the team and their 18th Man throughout the season with photos, videos and updates on the child.

Teams can get involved too, sending pictures, videos and even team gear over to their 18th Man.
